LATE THEORIES ON THE EARTH'S STATE.—Is the inside of the earth fluid or solid? Even in such a simple question as this we are in some degree in doubt. You may think this strange, because we find volcanoes throwing out liquid rock, and because we find much geological evidence to show that solid rock, such as basalt and trap, have been protruded as molten masses within recent geological epochs; but it has recently been shown by Mr. Mallet that the fact of volcanoes throwing out liquid rock may not be inconsistent with the view that the earth as a whole is solid. Mr. Mallet's investigations go to prove that this liquefaction of the rocks which we observe may be produced at no very great depth from the earth's surface by the shifting and rubbing together of the rocks, owing to the cracking due to the alteration of the temperature, just as boys at school rub a button on the bench until it is hot, when they often place it to their neighbor's cheek. Applying the laws of the mechanical theory of heat to this problem, Mr. Mallet believes that the friction of the rocks, caused by the cooling of the earth and the consequent shrinkage, is a sufficient and satisfactory explanation of the occurrence of the high temperature of volcanic action.

Sir Wm. Thompson, also, than whom no one is more capable of expressing an opinion, decides in favor of the earth's solidity. He tells us in his address to the Physical Section at Glasgow, that the conclusion concerning the solidity of the earth originally arrived at by Hopkins is borne out by a more rigorous mathematical treatment than that physicist was able to apply; so that the idea of geologists, who were in the habit of explaining underground heat, ancient upheavals, or modern volcanoes by the existence of a comparatively thin, solid shell, resting on an interior liquid mass, must now be given up as untenable.—Professor Roscoe.

People with false noses should not take Turkish baths. A man in San Francisco, who had subjected himself to the heat of one, found his nose coming out puckered, blistered, bulged, and shapeless. India-rubber and gum had entered its composition. Being unable to detach the nose, the man was compelled to return to Paris, where it had been manufactured, for a new proboscis.

A maniac in Cameron, Georgia, had a habit of wandering at night, and recently, the weather being unusually cool, his father chained him close to the fire-place when the family went to bed. The maniac, left by himself, piled wood on the fire until the flames caught in the house, and the rest of the family barely escaped, leaving him to be burned to death.

Henry Clay was the youngest man ever elected Speaker of the National House of Representatives. He was born in 1777, and elected Speaker in 1811, when he was barely 34 years of age. The next youngest Speaker was John W. Davis, of Indiana, who was elected in 1845, in his 36th year. Schuyler Colfax and N. P. Banks were each 40 years of age at the time of their election; James G. Blaine was 38; M. C. Kerr 48, and Sam Randall 48. The early advancement of Henry Clay in political life is a fact frequently mentioned. He was in the Legislature as soon as he was qualified to sit as a member. In 1806 he was appointed a United States Senator to fill a vacancy, but was at the time too young to meet the Constitutional requirements, and had to wait a short time before taking his seat. In 1809 he was again appointed to fill a vacancy in the Senate. In 1811 he was elected to the House, and on his first appearance in that body was chosen Speaker. The compliment was well bestowed, for he was, perhaps, the best qualified man in the House for the position. Although so young, he had much experience as Speaker of the Legislature, and was thoroughly versed in parliamentary law. That he discharged his duties to the satisfaction of his fellow members was shown by his being re-elected Speaker five times.

The American workingman must live in a house, not a hut; he must wear good clothes and eat wholesome and nourishing food. He is an integral of the municipality, the State and the nation; subject to no fetters of class or caste; neither pauper, nor peasant, nor serf, but a free American citizen. He has the ballot, and if it were possible it would be dangerous to degrade him. The country stands pledged to give him education, political power, and a higher form of life than foreign nations accord their laborers, and he must be sustained by higher rates of wages than those of Europe. Our industries, operated by American citizens, must be freed from foreign interference, and organized into a distinct American system, which will exact some temporary sacrifices, but result in general prosperity and true national independence. In maintaining diversified industries we utilize every talent, provide a field for every capacity, and bind together the whole people in mutual independence and support, assuring the strength and security of our Republic.—Hon. D. J. Morrell.

DEATH OF THE BIG-HEADED BOY.—Matthew Dorn, the monster-headed boy, is dead. He was 15 years of age, and was certainly a curiosity, if not a monstrosity, so far as his cranium was concerned. It is said that his head was nearly four feet in circumference, and weighed not quite eighty pounds. He was of Irish parentage. When six weeks old his head began growing much faster than his body, and continued to grow up to within a few weeks of his death, which occurred recently. He was never able to sit up, but could move his head from right to left while lying on a pillow. During the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia, he was taken there by speculative persons, but the undertaking did not prove successful there or in Albany, where he was subsequently exhibited for a few days. His body at the time of his death weighed about one-half as much as his head.—Troy (N. Y.) Times.

Forty-seven sentimental young idiots in Los Angeles, Cal., have paid $3 each to be vaccinated with the virus from the arm of a popular belle. The first one used it all up, but the other forty-six did not know the difference, and took the enterprising doctor's word for it.

The Louisiana orange crop of last year is estimated to have been 32,000,000 oranges, which would represent about 70,000 trees, and worth about $200,000 on the trees.

RENO, WASHOE COUNTY, NEVADA.

MONDAY, MARCH 12, 1877.

The Wisest Plan.

There should be in every individual and community life a main object, for which head and hand should work, and towards which all effort should tend. Each community should take careful note of the opportunities offered and strive for their improvement. In this way trades are built up, new industries fostered and common prosperity secured.

It is with this view that we often take occasion to speak to our farmers, not in any wish to dictate or define their methods, but that we may discover to them their own worth in our community and induce a greater interest in the pursuit of agriculture. Those who looked down upon this valley ten years ago can now see what change has been wrought by culture of the land. Where was then found only an arid waste he will now see plain homes and productive fields. Our town has come into existence and been maintained by this improvement directly, but one great element we have lost sight of. Farming in Washoe county is perhaps more profitable than elsewhere on the Coast, and from this very fact farmers have been content to neglect the ready means of improvement which would greatly increase their wealth. No system of drainage for carrying off the large quantities of alkali have yet been devised. Our irrigation process has not been perfected. Tree-planting has been neglected. The economical use of land has not been studied, and really no proper pains taken to reclaim or improve certain lands. This is a result of the low price set upon land heretofore, but within the year farms have become valuable property, and it should be every man's wish to add to his productive acres those now lying idle, and while rendering his land fertile add to it the cheerful improvements so long neglected. If your land is low and impregnated with alkali, provide drainage. Repair your ditches and perfect your system irrigation. Add manure to your soil and increase its fertility. Repair your farm buildings. Try to introduce a better strain of blood into your herds. Plant fruit and shade trees; in short give your time to the improvement of the farm, for in that process is the principle source of wealth for our country. The farming class is the mainstay of every community, and we counsel permanent improvement in our agricultural methods as the readiest means of securing comfort to the father and riches for the son. We are convinced that two years of positive effort will effect a change no less wonderful than that which the last ten years have wrought. Let our farmers try the experiment.

The German Government has assumed an attitude toward France which is calculated to cause considerable uneasiness as to the maintenance of peace. The German Government has been persistent in its manifestations of ill will. First came its refusal to take part in the Exhibition of 1873; next the attacks of the German press against France, and now it is understood that the Cabinet in Berlin has notified France that it regards the construction of a second line of fortresses as intended to create an artificial frontier line between Germany and France, without which the latter country is open to invasion. The French Government has complied, partially at least, with the demand of Germany, Work upon the fortifications of Arras will probably cease.

Hayes has determined upon occupying the Presidential chair himself, and will attempt to exercise the functions of his office. This seems to create great consternation among the violent partisans who hoped to govern through party spirit, but they will soon recover. The Democrats are also disappointed because of the disposition toward sound, impartial policies which he has shown, and refuse to be comforted. He wants to gain the advantage of their counsels, and they wish to withhold them. This is thoroughly partisan, and they should remember that "he serves his party best, who serves his country best."

One of the chief duties of the Washington police is to gather up the negro babies, dead and alive, left around on door-steps, in alleys, and on ash-heaps, nightly.

TELEGRAPHIC.

Since the President has taken such a decided stand, his popularity has greatly increased and now the highest opinions are entertained of him in Washington.

The entire Cabinet has been confirmed. The two Democrats who voted against the nominations are Thurman and Eaton.

The Assistant Secretary of the Treasury to-day issued the forty-second call for the redemption of fifty-two bonds of 1865 for May and November. The call is for $10,000,000—$7,000,000 coupon and $3,000,000 registered bonds, principal and interest to be paid at the Treasury on and after the 10th of June next. Interest will cease on that day.

There is much favorable comment upon the action of the Senate in confirming the Cabinet appointments of President Hayes. It is the impression that the Administration will, without delay, put into effect through the various Executive Departments the policy outlined in the inaugural address. The President this afternoon and evening was congratulated upon the fact that the Government is now fully organized. All the members of the Cabinet will take the oath of office on Monday, and enter immediately upon their respective duties. The first Cabinet meeting will be held on Tuesday.

Blaine alluded to certain letters in his speech last Thursday. These letters were published yesterday. They are from Stanley Matthews and W. M. Everts, and addressed to Gov. Chamberlain of South Carolina, intimating to him the propriety of yielding his position.

A largely attended business meeting in Memphis, Tenn., strongly indorsed the action of President Hayes and passed appropriate resolutions in reference to the appointment of D. M. Key as Post-Master-General. Similar resolutions came from different portions of the U. S.

A New York date of the 10th says: Objections to the will of the late Commodore Vanderbilt were filed in the Surrogate's office to-day by his son Cornelius J. Vanderbilt. They aver that the document is not the last will of the deceased; that it was signed by either the testator or by witnesses at his request; that the deceased was not in his sound mind when the document was purported to have been signed; that it was procured by fraud and the undue influence of Wm. H. Vanderbilt, and that, by a desire to concentrate his fortune in the person of William H. Vanderbilt, deceased had become incapacitated from making a fair will, and therefore disregarded his other children.

The Sun has a long story from Washington, showing that General Grant was a partner in the real estate pool, and that Garfield was bribed, as shown in Glover's report, soon to be presented.

The World's Washington special says: Hayes will give an opportunity to Packard and Chamberlain to voluntarily retire from positions they cannot possibly maintain.

The Sun says: General Grant is understood to have accepted the Presidency of the First National Bank in New York, and will enter upon his duties immediately.

FOREIGN.

A Berlin dispatch of the 10th says that Count Schonvaloff will carry to London definite proposals for the solution of the pending questions. There will be no demand for a pledge of future action. A final protocol is to be signed by the Powers collectively.

A Constantinople date of March 10, says: Under former Sultans there were instances of tyrannical, improvident and rapacious government; but under Sultan Abdul-Hamid we are in full anarchy.

SELECT SCHOOL.—Mrs. L. H. Sheets is prepared to give instruction to children between four and ten years of age, at her residence, (near that of Dr. Sheets). Terms, $3 00 per month. Mrs. Sheets having recently taught in the primary department of the Ferry's Seminary, Sacramento, and being one of the best teachers in California, she is well qualified to give instruction. Terms open March 11, 1877.

MODESTY.—The Cabinet nominated by President Hayes has been confirmed by the Senate. We are glad that the Senate followed the programme marked out by us yesterday.—Enterprise, March 11th.

It is a real pleasure to read such choice bits of pure modesty as the above. We fancy that we can almost see the U. S. Senators snatching up Sunday's Enterprise and reading the programme marked out by that influential sheet. They could but resolve to follow the programme which it had marked out. The nation is safe. It will now be in order for the Senate before adjournment to pass a resolution of thanks to the bonanza organ.

Terrible Tragedy.

From the Lyon County Times we learn the following particulars of an outrageous murder on the Carson river, about 25 miles from Dayton, on Thursday afternoon:

Tom McDowell and Eldorado Nolls were working on ranches near Fort Churchill, and were understood to be good friends. McDowell started a story on Nolls, and the latter said that he was a liar. Report brought to each the words of the other, and the flame of passion burned high. Thursday afternoon McDowell started to Dayton with a load of hay, having a man named Slater in company, and when within a short distance of Gate's ranch they saw Nolls walking in the road ahead of them. McDowell stepped to the tool-box of the wagon, drew a large six-shooter, cocked it, and said to Slater, "Now we'll have it." On coming up with Nolls, McDowell stepped towards him, saying:

"Nalls, you have called me a son of a b—, and I am going to kill you." "Nalls immediately threw up his hands and replied: "No, no! I did not; I said that you had lied about me."

Spite of this disclaimer, without another word, McDowell raised the pistol and fired, and Nalls fell to the ground. The ball entered midway of the throat and came out the back of the head. Immediately after shooting Nalls, McDowell turned upon Slater with the pistol, and said: "I will shoot you too, G—d—n you," and would undoubtedly have put the threat into execution had not Slater dodged behind the wagon and ran away.

Nalls died about 4 o'clock that afternoon. McDowell has made his escape.

SHAVING PARLORS.—Messrs. Morris & Frankfield take this method of announcing to their friends and the public in general, that they have opened a new and elegant hair dressing room, on Virginia street, fronting Budden's photograph gallery. LOCAL AFFAIRS.

IT FLEW TO MY BRAINS.—This afternoon a man past the middle age of life was brought before Justice Richardson to answer to the charge of drunk and disorderly conduct. The charge was read to him, and then Dan Mattox was asked: "What do you plead to the charge?" and then the tall man who had done so much to fear down what nature had done for him said: "Well, I'll tell you Judge, I'm not accustomed to drink, but I was at one of the saloons, and I took a drink or two, and it flew to my brains. I am a working man, and intend, in about a week, to work on a ditch for Mr. R.— It isn't dry enough yet. There's no excuse, I know, for a man not working now, but I've been sick most of the winter. One of the gentlemen present said: "Dan, you must look out for this Reno whisky, it is lighting sometimes." "Yes, I've been struck two or three times, it's fearful stuff I know it is, I've got one or two places spotted in town, where they sell it." "Well, Dan, you can't stand it as you could twenty years ago." "I know," said the poor fellow, "but it used to get the better of me then, and set me crazy occasionally, as it does now." He leaned over the bannister and the Justice said: "Dan, I fine you $5 and costs, or ten days in the county jail." "Thank you sir," said Dan; "the sentence is lighter than I expected—much obliged to you," and Barlow led the man away to spend ten days in the lock-up. The great lock was turned, and he was left to those reflections which come to one who has a fragment of manhood yet left, but who has just given himself another illustration that he is his own worst enemy.

FIRE.—About 11:30 Saturday night an alarm of fire was given and out came the boys. It was ascertained that a large stack of hay, the property of Alvira Evans, was on fire, and after a little confusion both engines were taken to the scene of the conflagration. No water was to be had, so the steam engine was brought back to town and her boiler filled. The water was then turned into the ditch and after about two hours delay a stream was turned on the burning hay. As there were few men at the fire the hand engine was comparatively worthless. The cause of the fire is not known, but it is supposed to have been accidentally set on fire by some tramp who was sleeping in the hay. Some thought the stack was set on fire that the light-fingered might have opportunity to ply their vocation, but we have not heard that there was a single attempt at robbery, house-breaking or larceny. If it was spite-work the fiend should, if caught, be severely dealt with. The first supposition is probably the correct one. There was over 100 tons of fine alfalfa hay burned, and a number of tons spoiled by water. The total loss is estimated at $2,000.

STEPS NEEDED.—The sidewalk in front of Gantz Hotel, on the corner of Virginia and Second streets, is sadly in need of steps on Second street. A weak board was tacked to the walk, but it broke under the weight of a small man and laid him up with a sore back for a week. A lady, a few nights since, stepped off the walk, supposing it not as high as it is, and narrowly escaped serious injury. Let this walk be fixed at once. It is some three feet above terra firma, and is dangerous. Several other walks in town should be fixed. Why not have a decent sidewalk in front of your premises? There are a number of men who want work and lumber is cheap. Let us have good sidewalks.

CROP PROSPECTS.—California has become hopeful of good crops during the coming year. Most sections of that State have enjoyed a sufficient rainfall to produce average crops, and it is fair to hope for still more during the season. San Joaquin Valley, however, is still suffering from the drouth, and must be very fortunate if it produces an average crop. The grass is well started upon the hills, and feed will soon be abundant.

PERSONAL.—John Stone, an old settler at Glendale and now of Dutch Flat, is in town visiting friends and settling business matters. Mr. Stone will shortly change his home again, this time going to San Leandro. Dutch Flat did not exactly suit, and we should not be surprised if he returned finally to the sagebrush. There is no place like home.

Jottings.

Remember that the Grand St. Patrick's Ball is set for Friday evening, March 16th.

Beware of tramps setting fire to your premises. Twelve car-loads of beef cattle sailed to the Golden State this afternoon.

J. F. Cooke will make the Commercial Exchange more attractive than before.

The Janitor is still engaged cleaning out the "Augean" stables at Carson.

Geo. Kittrell returned from San Diego to Carson yesterday morning.

Gus Ash, U. S. Marshall, was in town to-day. He came to serve part of a venire for U. S. Grand Jurors on several of our good citizens.

Our Comstock friends Saturday caught one fish with a steel hook, but the rest were entrapped by silver bait. They had a jolly time anyhow.

The soiree given Saturday evening by Messrs Scott & Parks was very well attended, and was quite a pleasant affair. Henceforth invitation tickets will be issued by these gentlemen.

The revival meetings still continue in the Methodist and Baptist churches. This week is the tenth since Rev. T. J. Arnold began his labors. He has worked alone during all this time and still gives favorable symptoms of living yet many days. Last evening he immersed three persons, one lady and his own little boy and girl.

Have you settled your election bets?

T. K. Hymers will return from San Francisco about next Wednesday.

The wind made it lively for hats on the V. & T. bridge yesterday.

The railroad tracks are getting fashionable for Sunday afternoon walks.

We hear of another hall soon to be erected in the most comfortable, cozy style. The hall 50x90 and the stage commodious. We hope the rumor become a reality as such an edifice would be good property.

Stocks are off again to-day, giving blue Monday double significance.

SACRAMENTO.—A party of Renoites visited Sacramento last week, and express the determination not to do so any more. The race was as slow as the law allowed, and Sacramento the dulllest town that ever contained 30,000 inhabitants. The Cantata of Queen Esther was given by amateurs at the Metropolitan Theater, and compared very unfavorably with a similar effort made in Reno some time since. A visit to the railroad shops and a sight of the flowers and grass which are now growing finely in that region, was the only pleasant feature. One of the party has sent back to Reno for his dog. He wants to stand off the hotel runners.

SAD.—Calvin B. McDonald, one of the best newspaper writers and lecturers on this coast, is now in the Sierra County Hospital. Poor McDonald, with a polished mind and a most gifted pen, has been, for several years, under the control of the demon of drink, and now this King's chains are riveted upon one of the most gifted men in the United States. It makes the heart almost sick to see a towering genius brought low by a vice, while his inferiors occupy those stations for which they are not fitted.

TEN NIGHTS.—That highly moral and interesting drama, "Ten Nights in a Bar-Room," will be produced at the Reno Opera House on Thursday evening next, March 15th, 1877. Native talent is alone employed in its production, and we understand that the troupe is doing well. Everybody will go of course to see the amateurs and help the worthy object. Admission 50 cent.

NEW STORE.—J. J. Quinn, formerly of Reno, and since a resident of Truckee, has brought his fortunes to Reno. Mr. Quinn has purchased the lot and building on Virginia street now occupied by Nick Hammersmith's barber shop, and will open a tin store therein on or about April 1st. He comes to stay, and will try to suit the public wants in his line.

STILL ALIVE.—We saw Gov. Bradley lately on the cars and he seemed to be enjoying good health, notwithstanding his course upon the Compromise question. He did not mind the Enterprise's abuse, because the people knew both accuser and accused.

F. C. A.—The Farmers' Co-operative store is now open for business under the charge and general supervision of J. S. Shoemaker, that gentleman having consented to take charge of the store until the business is gotten under way, and perhaps permanently. The Trustees of the Association are to hold a meeting this week, when certain permanent arrangements will be made. The Farmers' store has now a stock worth about $20,000. The Trustees intend increasing this stock in quantity and variety, in a short time. They will have a clothing and dry goods department in addition to an increased stock of groceries and provisions.

CORRECT.—We had the pleasure of a conversation recently with Assemblyman Bell, of Nye county, upon the legislative extravaganzas at Carson. Mr. Bell was one of the able defenders of Governor Bradley's manly course in vetoing the "nutriment" bill. He also gave us an insight into the inner circles where the chicanery was thickest, and after his statement we found it exceedingly difficult to understand how any man who claimed to represent the people could vote for the compromise. Bell says that every expression which he heard in San Francisco endorsed the veto. All of which is correct.

ANOTHER BIG RACE.—They are going to match Occident again. In fact the money is ready and only conditions of the race remain to be settled. Much curiosity is expressed in certain quarters as to what horse it may be; but it is not a horse at all which Occident is pitted against now, but a cow. They have tried him against horses and he has failed. His friends, however, believe that he can beat any cow in the State. The cow is a large favorite among the knowing ones.

RECOVERING.—Sol Geller has been confined to his room for some time with a severe inflammation of the right eye. Fears were entertained at one time that he would lose the eye, but good care has saved any such unfortunate loss. Sol is now around, and will soon start north to look after his interests in that section. We advise a little good care of his optics until they are entirely restored.

SHOOTING.—About the time the fire alarm was struck Saturday night several shots were fired on Virginia street near the old dance house. We did not hear that anyone was hurt, but one gentleman was much frightened. Persons cannot be too cautious about discharging firearms on our public streets.

SUPERIOR IRON HARROW.—I have a harrow which I offer to the public, which I think excels anything in the harrow line I have ever seen. It is made entirely of the best Norway wrought iron, except the points of the teeth, which are tipped with four inches of the best steel. My harrow will cover grain or grass seed, being made to run deep into the ground or pass lightly over it. Another superiority which I claim for it is, that it has no dead motion like wooden harrows; when passing over the ground it has a swinging motion, which very much increases its efficiency. On the upper side are two bows or runners on which the harrow may glide smoothly along when it is being removed from one field to another. Any size desired promptly made to order.

AT THE OLD STAND.—Pat Keliber has sold the Branch Saddle Rock and returned to the Saddle Rock original, next to the International hotel. This change has been made solely because Pat found himself unable to tend to both places with sufficient care. He prides himself upon his close attention to business and the large number of patrons which he has gained thereby. He now asks a continuance of past favors at the Saddle Rock and promises to deserve them more than ever. Old patrons only need to know the location while new comers are referred to the Saddle Rock for trial. Any man who is not satisfied will go free of charge. Pat points with pride to the number of fat men now roaming our streets, and confesses that his famous Eastern oysters and made dinners have done the work. Call at the Saddle Rock and you may be assured of good treatment and the best which the market affords.

Odds and Ends.

When is a candle like a tombstone? When it is put up for a late husband.

Love may be a pure and holy passion, but still there is a great deal of Cupidity about it.

The marrying young man, if his own wishes were consulted, would rather have a fair Countess than a fair count.

A happy Chicago maiden affirms that by placing a lover in the rays of a blue glass window he can be made to propose at one sitting. She has tried and proved it herself.

She was telling a female friend how Mary Jane quarreled with her "feller," and said she, "Why, if you heard 'em talk you'd think they were married."

It is noticeable that the number of big school boys who paroxysmally kiss the school marm when she tries to whip them is on the increase. It is also noticeable that this increase is followed by a large increase in the number of school marms who attempt to whip big boys.

A neighboring lyceum recently discussed the following question: "What can one poor, weak woman with a club do against a tyrannical husband who crawls under the bed and refuses to come out?"

Women are so handy in case of fire. One in Hartford, recently, threw a plate of raw liver out of the window to save it, and then ran for her life, leaving all her clothes and valuables behind.

The meanest attempt at conjugal deception occurred at Harlem just after the late fall of snow. Simpkins pretends to read from the papers that a woman at Yorkville found a valuable diamond ring where she was shovelling snow off the sidewalk. Mrs. Simpkins gazed at him scornfully, and carelessly took up the poker. He gave the boy a leaden dime to do the shovelling.

"I say, Cap'n," said a little-eyed man as he landed from the steamer at Natchez, "I say, Cap'n, this 'ere ain't all." "That's all the luggage you brought on board, sir," replied the captain. "Well, see now, it's according to list—four boxes, two chests, two ban-boxes, a portmanteau, two hams (one part cut), three ropes in yams and a tea-kettle; but I'm durnesome. I feel there's something short, though I've counted 'em over nine times, and never took my eyes off 'em while on board; there's something not right somehow." Well, stranger, the time's up; there's all I know of; so bring your wife and five children out of the cabin, and we're off. "Them's um, darn it, them's um! I knowed I forgot something."

CARRYING WEIGHT.—A series of experiments made in France shows approximately that the heaviest load a man of strength can carry for a short distance is 319 pounds. All a man can carry habitually, as, for example, a soldier his knapsack, walking on a level ground, is 132 pounds—an extreme load it would seem—or he can carry an aggregate of 1,518 pounds over 3,200 feet as a day's work, under like circumstances. If he ascend ladders or stairs, as do hod-carriers, then he can carry but 121 pounds continuously, and his day's work cannot exceed 1,232 pounds raised 3,200 feet high.

John B. Last, of Green Bay, Wis., has invented a new kind of stove-pipe hat. It is intended for the use of bald headed married men of that city. The invention consists of the inserting of "blue glass" in the crown of the hat in order to propagate the growth of the hair.

Little Susie, looking at some pictures of winged angels, exclaimed: "Mamma, I don't want to be an angel." "Why not, dear?" "Humph! Leave off all my pretty clothes and wear feathers like a hen!"
